unjust enrichment is one of the least understood of the major branches of private law this book builds on the 2006 work by the same authors which examined the developing law of unjust enrichment in Australia the refinement of the authors' thinking responding to novel issues and circumstances that have arisen in the maturing case law has required many chapters of the book to be completely rewritten the scope of the book is also much broader it concerns the principles of the law of unjust enrichment in Australia New Zealand England and Canada major decisions of the highest courts of these jurisdictions in the last decade provide a fertile basis for examining the underlying principles and foundations of this subject the book uses the leading cases particularly in England and Australia to distil and explain the fundamental principles of this branch of private law the cases discussed are current as of 1 May 2016

constitutional law provides the legal framework for the Australian political and legal systems and thus touches almost every aspect of Australian life. The handbook offers a critical analysis of some of the most significant aspects of Australian constitutional arrangements, setting them against the historical, legal, political, and social contexts in which Australia's constitutional system has developed. It takes care to highlight the distinctive features of the Australian constitutional system by placing the Australian system where possible in global perspective. The chapters of the handbook are arranged in seven thematically grouped parts. The first, Foundations, deals with aspects of Australian history which have influenced constitutional arrangements. The second, Constitutional Domain, addresses the interaction between the constitution and other relevant legal systems and orders, including the common law, international law, and state constitutions. The third, Themes, identifies themes of special constitutional significance, including the legitimacy of the constitution, citizenship, and republicanism. The fourth, Practice and Process, deals with practical issues relevant to constitutional litigation, including the processes, techniques, and authority of the High Court of Australia. The final three parts deal with the structural building blocks of the Australian constitutional system: separation of powers, federalism, and the protection of rights. Written by a team of experts drawn from academia and practice, the handbook provides Australian and international readers alike with a reliable source of knowledge, understanding, and insight into the Australian constitution.

This book investigates judicial deference to the administration in judicial review, a concept and legal practice that can be found to a greater or lesser degree in every constitutional system. In each system, deference functions differently because of the positioning of the judiciary with regard to the separation of powers the role of the courts as a mechanism of checks and balances and the scope of judicial review differ in addition the way deference works within the constitutional system itself is complex multi faceted and often covert although judicial deference to the administration is a topical theme in comparative administrative law a general examination of national systems is still lacking as such a theoretical and empirical review is called for accordingly this book presents national reports from 15 jurisdictions ranging from argentina canada and the us to the eu constituting the outcome of the 20th general congress of the international academy of comparative law held in fukuoka japan in july 2018 it offers a valuable and unique resource for the study of comparative administrative law modern societies like organized societies of all eras suffer from antithetical aspirations from competing institutionalizations of that which is desirable and that which though unwelcome is inevitable men clearly see the advantages of localism of the self determination of small peoples of l amour du chocher uninhibited by imperial sovereignty at the same time men everywhere are seeing the clear necessity of bigness in organization of national effort when the question is military organization no one has much doubt that strength derives from power ful union the swiss to be sure have continued independent not because of their power but because of the convenience of their in dependent existence in a world society of titans there must be members who are small respected independent and unfeared available to be intermediaries if switzerland did not exist it would have been necessary to invent her but the power centers are those with the big battalions and the megatons of bombs both demand great aggregates tomorrow s military power structure is calculated in the hundreds of millions of people the world will afford only a few switzerlands the drive toward bigness is as inevitable in the economic world as in that of destructive machines economic problems in the next century and in the next after it will require the concentrated re sources of the nations we must produce adequate food for the billions or else billions will war against billions
