Academic writing in ESL composition classes - Academic discourse community 2009-03-13 seminar paper from the year 2005 in the subject english language and literature studies other grade 1 west virginia university language english abstract this paper discusses the concept of academic writing and the role of the importance in the esl classroom the different perspectives that have to be considered while teaching writing for an academic purpose and some teaching approaches will be mentioned and evaluated thereby the focus will be on the different opinions and methods as well as constraints and problems that scholars investigated about the notion of academic writing there are a lot of discussions and some research has recently tried to define how the particluar and varied academic discourse communities have to be considered in the curriculum of esl learners but still there is a lot of uncertainty of how effective classroom teaching in composition or content classes lead to a the demanded knowledge transformation that the esl students need in order to fit successfully into a special academic field and write with respect to the expectations of that special audience this paper tries to mention the most important articles and findings in order to understand the notion of academic writing and examines some of the constraints students as well as teachers have to deal with and summarizes also some opportunities of making students aware of specific styles formats and conventions that are needed in their particular discourse communities and that can and should be involved in esl composition and content classes with english for an academic purpose to achieve a desired participation in the higher educational level through fullfilment of the writing standards of educational and academical conventions and values of a particular discourse community a working definition of godev explains the notion of academic writing the term academic writing seems to escape any definition that may try to encompass every writing task likely to be encountered in any of the academic disciplines godev 2000 636 the reason for this is that the style of a given academic product is defined by conventions that are ultimately dicipline specific as spack pointed out spack 1988 32 nevertheless there are four different perspectives that have to be considered to get a wider understanding of the term academic writing the notions of a audience b task c communicative functions and d style are very crucial in order to conceive a working definition of academic writing the four different perspectives have different views of and about academic writing gajdusek van dommelen 1993 202 as well as silva 1991 stated that from the perspective of the audience academic writing is a kind of writing accepted by the faculty of a particular discourse community when discussing a topic in a published material or when the members of the special discourse community adress themselves to others of the same one orally silva explained the notion of audience a little bit more explicit his definition of audience says that academic writing is prose that will be acceptable at an american academic institution

Academic Discourse and Critical Consciousness 1992-12-18 this collection of essays traces the attempts of one writing teacher to understand theoretically and to respond pedagogically to what happens when students from diverse backgrounds learn to use language in college bizzell begins from the assumption that democratic education requires us to attempt to educate all students including those whose social or ethnic backgrounds may have offered them little experience with academic discourse over the ten year period chronicled in these essays she has seen herself primarily as an advocate for such students sometimes called basic writers bizzell s views on education for critical consciousness widely discussed in the writing field are represented in most of the essays in this volume but in the last few chapters and in the intellectual autobiography written as the introduction to the volume she calls her previous work into question on the grounds that her self appointment as an advocate for basic writers may have been presumptous and her hopes for the politically liberating effects of academic discourse misplaced she concludes by calling for a theory of discourse that acknowledges the need to argue for values and pedagogy that can assist these arguements to proceed more inclusively than ever before the essays in this volume constitute the main body of work in which bizzell developed her influential and often cited ideas organized chronologically they present a picture of how she has grappled with major issues in composition studies over the past decade in the process she sketches a trajectory for the development of composition studies as an academic discipline

Dialogue within Discourse Communities 2005-01-01 the book explores aspects of reflexivity and interactivity in a variety of academic genres oral and written scientific and educational academic discourse is explored from a variety of perspectives that take a dialogic view of language use as their starting point ranging from conversation analysis to descriptive or applied genre studies particular attention is paid to the way metadiscursive expressions contribute to a representation of the communicative procedures that characterise the ongoing scientific and educational dialogues

Authority, Discourse, Community 1989 persuasion in its various linguistic forms enters our lives daily politicians and the news media attempt to change or confirm our beliefs while advertisers try to bend our tastes toward buying their products persuasion goes on in courtrooms universities and the business world persuasion pervades interpersonal relations in all social spheres public and private and persuasion reaches us via a large number of genres and their intricate interplay this volume brings together nine chapters which investigate some of the typical genres of modern persuasion using both quantitative and qualitative methods the authors explore the linguistic features of successful and unsuccessful persuasion and the reasons for the variation of persuasive choices as realized in various genres business negotiations judicial argumentation political speech advertising newspaper editorials and news writing in the final chapter the editors tie together the two themes persuasion and genres by proposing an intergenre model this model assumes that a powerful force behind generic evolution is the perennial need for implicit persuasion

The Social Construction of Knowledge in an Electronic Discourse Community 2003-09-02 in reconstructing response to student writing dan melzer makes the argument that writing instructors should shift the construct so that peer response and student self assessment are more central than teacher response presenting the results of a national study of teacher and peer response and student self assessment at institutions of higher education across the united states melzer analyzes teacher and peer response to over 1 000 pieces of student writing as well as 128 student portfolio reflection essays he draws on his analysis and on a comprehensive review of the literature on response to introduce a constructivist heuristic for response aimed at both composition instructors and instructors across disciplines melzer argues that teachers and researchers should focus less on teacher response to individual pieces of student writing and more on engaging in dialogue with student self assessment and peer response focusing on growth and transfer rather than products and grades reconstructing response to student writing especially when taken together with melzer s previous book assignments across the curriculum provides a comprehensive and large scale view of college writing and responding across the curriculum in the united states

Genre In The New Rhetoric 1993-07-01 this book is among the first to combine a historical view of media texts with a critical look at their textual diversity today the thirteen chapters cover corpora of early news papers and pamphlets present day news stories and commentaries tv talk shows and commercials as well as internet presentations the studies focus on the wide range of text types in 18th century newspapers and the interpersonal strategies of pamphlets they pursue the development of the persuasive potential of headlines and advertisements right down to the sophisticated postmodernist and multilingual examples of today other topics are the definition and structure of news stories and commentaries the interpersonal and multi modal aspects of talkshows and more radically the questioning of the journalist s role in the age of the internet generally the stress is on the attention getting side of media texts rather than on the manipulative qualities investigated by critical discourse analysis

Hearing Ourselves Think 2023-08-07 scientific discourse is increasingly internationalised as a result of the great influence that the discourse conventions of the international english speaking academic community exert on scientific communication worldwide contrastive rhetoric studies however have shown that the particular configuration of different discourse communities may have an influence on the construction of genres this book explores rhetorical preferences in the research article abstract genre the main focus of the study is an investigation of the extent to which there is cross linguistic variation in terms of the rhetorical strategies used by writers in abstracts to foreground their main knowledge claims and present themselves as qualified discourse community members from a quantitative and qualitative perspective the author compares the rhetorical structure and other socio pragmatic features of abstracts written in english for international scientific journals with those written in spanish for spanish journals in the experimental social sciences and more specifically in the disciplines of phonetics and psychology in the interpretation of results the author mainly draws on socio cultural and contextual factors to account for cross cultural rhetorical variation

Reconstructing Response to Student Writing 2000-12-04 as its title suggests this book is a selection of papers that use english corpora to study language variation along three dimensions time place and genre in broad terms the book aims to bridge the gap between corpus linguistics and sociolinguistics and to increase our knowledge of the characteristics of english language it includes eleven papers which address a variety of research questions but with the commonality of a corpus based methodology some of the contributions deal with language variation in time either by looking into historical corpora of english or by adopting the method known as diachronic comparable corpus linguistics thus illustrating how corpora can be used to illuminate either historical or recent developments of english other studies investigate variation in space by comparing different varieties of english including some of the new englishes such as the south asian varieties of english finally some of the papers deal with variation in genre by looking into the use of language for specific purposes through the inspection of medical articles social reports and academic writing
