excerpt from human geography in western europe a study in appreciation this book contains a selection of the contents of lectures and discussions in a class in human geography at aberystwyth during the last ten years in such work as this every limitation of the writer inevitably makes itself felt and yet as it is of the nature of an appreciation rather than of a professedly complete study the personal note is a necessity it may be said to be an early draft of an attempt to appreciate the genius loci of some of the human groups which have become accustomed to live and act as such in western europe it tries to visualise those groups with their varied racial elements making their several contributions within each while the group as a whole in turn makes its cumulative contribution to what may become a community of civilisation the effort is therefore made to study human experience in each region in concrete fashion with attention directed continuously both to man and to his environment and this it is urged is an essential task of the geographer about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
